FRIENDSHIP HOUSE ASKS AID FOR YEAR'S BUDGET

Campaign to Raise $3,500 Is on This Week—Work of the Settlement.

There is one lesson which every social worker soon learns, and that is to make the best of the materials at hand. This has been demonstrated at Friendship House, which is having its annual campaign for funds this week.

Last winter the settlement moved into its own home, at 326 Virginia avenue southeast, next door to the rented quarters which it had occupied for many years. The attractive old house is well adapted for use as a settlement, except that there was hardly room enough, there being no large room which the boys could use for their clubhouse.

In the backyard, however, stood an old carriage house, very much in need of repair, and, of course, unheated. A good friend happened along just then, a skilled carpenter, who offered his services for as much time as he could spare.

Gymnasium in Old Shed.

He was set to work at the old shed, put in windows, made a new floor out of old staves and stretched the remains of a canvas tent over the inside walls, to keep out the cold. A stove was donated and set up and the boys hailed their clubhouse with enthusiasm.

"The usefulness of that tumbledown old shed, however, does not end there. During the summer a young man who is working his way through college and trying to live as cheaply as possible occupied the old carriage house, in return for his help with the coaching classes at the settlement. He proved to be a friend to all the small boys of the settlement, and his little shed became a real 'house by the side of the road.'

Hopes for Clubhouse Some Pay. Some day Friendship House hopes to build a real clubhouse on that back lot where the old shed stands. Now, however, it is occupied in paying off the mortgage of $4,000 on the house. Incurment when the property was bought last winter. Already $800 of it has been paid and contributions toward paying the rest will be gladly welcomed.

This week Friendship House hopes to raise $3,500 to complete its budget for the year. The downtown headquarters are at Burchell's, 1325 F street, where there will be some one every day ready to answer all questions and receive contributions. Visitors at the settlement will be gladly welcomed also.

JOHN L. WEAVER NAMES AN ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Local Fuel Administrator Picks Four for Consultation—Confer First Time Today.

Mr. Edward F. Colladay, representing the various interests vitally concerned in the fuel situation in Washington, has been named by John L. Weaver, fuel administrator for the District of Columbia, and he will meet with them for the first time in his office in the Woodward building at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Edward F. Colladay, Clarence A. Aspinwall, John H. Hanna and W. W. Griffith are the four men named by Mr. Weaver. Mr. Colladay, an attorney, former president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations and one of the leading men in civic affairs in the District, is particularly the representative of the small consumer on the committee.

In Mr. Griffith, one of the leading coal retailers, Mr. Weaver said today, he believed he had found a man through whom he could promptly and effectively reach the many questions involved in distribution and supply. Mr. Hanna, vice president of the Capital Traction Company, will be concerned particularly with the fuel needs of the public utilities, so that the street car and electric light supply of the District may not be crippled by lack of coal.

Mr. Aspinwall, vice president of the Security Storage Company, was chosen by Mr. Weaver to aid in fixing the price of coal. His knowledge gained through the operations of his company, where many automobile trucks, horses, wagons and labor of all classes are employed, is expected to be of value in determining how much it costs retailers to handle a ton of coal in Washington.

As Mr. Weaver is responsible directly to the War Department, and President Wilson, he has the power to decide all matters at issue at the advice of this committee, which will be sought freely and frequently, is expected to be able to help him in solving the knotty problems of a city's fuel supply.

LITTLE GAME REACHES CITY.

Small consignments Mark Opening of Fall Gunning Season.

Small consignments of game reached the local markets this morning, the opening day of the fall gunning season in several nearby counties of Virginia and numerous states not so near this city.

The few rabbits that were received were in splendid condition, according to statements of dealers, and found ready sale at 45 and 50 cents apiece. The game was the guest of Mrs. Albert Rhett at the Halcyon dinner at the Arts Club last evening.

Mrs. W. W. Rockhill, widow of the former ambassador to Russia, has taken an apartment at the Cordova, where she will arrive shortly from New York.

dricks of Kensington, Md., wore dainty white dresses with yellow accessories, and they held the ribbons through which the bride party passed to the improvised altar. Mr. Charles E. Robinson of Richmond acted as best man for his brother.

A reception followed, when the newly married couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Walker, mother of the bride, who wore a handsome black satin gown. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left later for a northern wedding trip and on their return they will reside at 1333 Kenyon street.

The out-of-town guests here for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graves, Miss Kathryn Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Thomas, the latter a sister of Mr. Robinson; Miss Elizabeth Baker, Mrs. M. H. Coleman, Mrs. Henry Caden and Mrs. T. N. Howey, all of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. N. I. Gressett and Miss Lula Gressett of Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Alvin Harris of Fredericksburg, Va., and Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Merchant of Manassas, Va.

Former Gov. Joseph Folk, counselor of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Mrs. Folk gave their annual dinner for the other members of the commission and their wives last evening, entertaining in the presidential suite at the Willard. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. McChord, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop M. Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Atchison, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Woolley and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Anderson.

Mrs. Deane Edwards, who was the guest of her grandparents and her uncle and aunt, Gen. and Mrs. John W. Foster and the Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing, returned to her home at Watertown, N. Y., yesterday.

Mrs. Adolph Caspar Miller, who is in California, will return to Washington in a week and join Mr. Miller at their home in S street for the winter.

An engagement of interest to residents of Virginia and Washington, recently announced at Baltimore, is that of Miss Margaret Lewis Maupin, daughter of the late Prof. Chapman Maupin and Mrs. Maupin of Baltimore, formerly of Virginia, and Mr. Rex Corbin Spencer Maupin, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cary Maupin, who is a cousin of the bride. Miss Maupin, who is a cousin of her fiancé, is a granddaughter of the late Prof. Spencer Maupin, president of the University of Virginia, and of the late Gen. William Alex. Tallaferro, who at the close of the war commanded the "Stone-wall Brigade," Confederate States Army. She is related to the oldest and most distinguished families in America, as is also Mr. Maupin. The marriage will take place early in November.

Miss Mary Fogg, who spent the summer on the Pacific coast, and who is now visiting at her home at Nashville, Tenn., will return to Washington tomorrow and join her mother for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weil of Houston, Tex., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Celeste Weil, and Mr. Fulton Brylawski of this city.

Miss Mary Synon of Chicago, ex-secretary of the women's liberty loan committee, was the guest of Mrs. Albert Rhett at the Halcyon dinner at the Arts Club last evening.

Mrs. W. W. Rockhill, widow of the former ambassador to Russia, has taken an apartment at the Cordova, where she will arrive shortly from New York.
